IN CONGRESS.

A Review of the Situation and Scope of the Proposed Legislation.

PLEDGES WILL BE RENDERED

Washington, Sept. 3.—The pledges of the Chicago platform will be rendered. Every promise made by the Democratic party will be fulfilled. The repeal of the Sherman law is now virtually an accomplished fact. It may take ten days more to reach a vote in the Senate and possibly a couple of weeks longer to secure the final enactment of unconditional repeal into law. It is now settled, however, that it will be done promptly and according to the plan of the administration. The reform of the tariff is also assured and the work has already been inaugurated. The Committee on Ways and Means is fully organized and to-morrow it will begin its hearings. After the 28th of this month the work of putting a bill in shape will begin, and within six weeks it is calculated that a measure can be presented before the full committee for its formal consideration.

The third and most important step is one just decided upon at a conference of treasury officials and congressmen, all their friends and representatives of the administration. The result of the conference will probably be sweeping change in the banking laws of the country and the inauguration of a new system. This change now contemplated is in some degree a result of the agitation over unconditional repeal and the silver question, though it is in accord with one of the planks of the Chicago platform. It is calculated, of course, that the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law will restore confidence in financial circles, though it may not improve conditions to the extent demanded or desired.

The extreme west and south seem to be clamoring for an increase of the currency, and for this reason especially have the majority of the members from those sections insisted upon free coinage. Such men as Vast and Cockrell of Missouri, Tamm of Kentucky, Berry of Arkansas, White and Coker of Louisiana, Butler of South Carolina and Vance of North Carolina in the Senate, and Dockery and Culbertson of Texas, Boatner of Louisiana, Stone of Kentucky and Livingston of Georgia, in the House, have told the President that the mere unconditional repeal of the silver purchasing law will not satisfy the people of their districts. To overcome these criticisms and to afford the further relief demanded several plans have been suggested. One of these is an issue of bonds with which it is expected to bring more gold into the country. Upon this some of the silver men have been sanguine enough to hang to a hope of international bi-metalism. Another plan increase the currency contemplates the issue of loan certificates against the reinsurance of the silver now stored in the treasury; and other financiers, more or less rash, have suggested the coining of the six hundred tons or so of silver bullion on hand.

Judge Sayers, of Texas, and some other members propose an issue of treasury notes to relieve the present stringency and to supply the threatened deficit in the treasury, and in the Senate a bill has already been introduced and to some extent discussed authorizing national banks to issue currency to the full amount of their bonds. This proposition has provoked an attack on the national banks by Senator Cockrell and some others who entertain rather violent views on the subject, and they have already suggested in the debate that the time is near at hand when the banking system as now organized must be changed.

A large portion of the bonds upon which the currency is based will soon expire and for that reason alone another plan than that now in operation must be devised unless a new issue of bonds is authorized. A feeling prevails in some sections of the country, particularly the south and west, that, after all, the banks of New York have been in some measure responsible for the existing stringency. Whether this feeling be just or unjust, it has already cropped out in the debate in the Senate, and Senators Teller and Wolcott of Colorado, Peffer of Kansas, Cockrell of Missouri, and others have taken occasion to criticize the banks as if the balance rested entirely upon them.

The conduct of the New York banks in issuing an excessive amount of clearing house certificates, reducing their reserve below the point authorized by law and declining to pay drafts and checks in some instances to their own depositors has only intensified the feeling and exaggerated the criticism against them. All of these things have been taken into consideration by the Democratic leaders and as a result of various informal conferences he past few days, a formal meeting was held at the treasury department Saturday for the purpose of determining what might be the plan of the administration. The President was represented by Secretary Carlisle, and there were present John DeWitt Warner, N. S. Hall, member of the House committee on banking and currency, and Speaker Crisp. The whole subject was gone over, and while the conclusions reached by the conference have not taken final shape, it may be stated as a certainty that an administration bill will soon be introduced in both Houses of Congress. It will provide for a radical change in the National banking system of the country. The first step will be the repeal of the 10 per cent tax on State banks. This idea is favored, it is claimed, by some of the lending financiers of the country. Petitions in favor of the repeal of the State bank tax have been received in great numbers from bankers and other financiers all over the South and West and from many portions of the East, and the sentiment in many instances is emphatically expressed in favor of a change of the present system that will permit a reorganization of the National banks as State institutions.

It is suggested, of course, that the government sustain supervision and control of them so far as the system of examination and holding them to account is concerned. It is stated tonight that the President now favors the change and the plan proposed will be embodied in a bill to be drawn under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, with Mr. Cleveland's approval and endorsement. The measure will come from the committee in due time, and the influence of the administration will be used to press it through Congress and secure its enactment.

ONE THOUSAND VICTIMS.

Additional Reports of the Great Storm are Almost Incredible.

Destitution and death to an extent that has not heretofore been reported is the condition resulting from Sunday's storm. A few miles from one of the dead when completed will barely fill a small boat. The greatest loss of life is on the Sea Islands. The seven thousand remaining inhabitants are in desperate straits, being in need of food and other necessities of life. Their crops and stores were entirely destroyed. The hurricane seemed to lift the sea from its bed and bore it fifteen miles inland. Nothing could withstand the force of the wind and waves, and the evidences of the storm's fury, seen on every hand, are pitiable.

A sea captain at Beaufort says he never saw anything to equal it, and believes the wind must have been blowing a hundred and twenty miles an hour when the greatest velocity was reached. Every house either partially or wholly demolished that was in the path of the storm. Steamships were blown upon dry land, trees were hoisted and scattered about, and at intervals dead bodies were found, while ever upon the waves would cast ashore one or more lifeless forms, swollen, distorted and bruised. The Coroner had to search in a half-dozen deputies, one for each of the islands where death was reported. It is said that one of these deputies held an inquest over seventy-eight people. While the inquest was being held seventy-eight bodies, swollen and fast decomposing, were waiting interment at the hands of their white and colored friends who had escaped death so narrowly.

Some of the islands have not yet been heard from at all, while of those heard from at all, while of those heard from there was not a single one which did not increase the death roll. On each of these the death rate was large, but in many instances the names can not be ascertained. Many of the bodies were beyond recognition when found, while others were buried as unknown. There are only two steamers at Beaufort now, and both are chartered by the Port Royal and Augusta railroad. This prevents passage between the islands. The Coroner, however, and Collector of the Port, ex-Congressman Small, are compiling the record as fast as possible.

Savannah, Ga., Sept. 1.—S. S. Frieling, of the wholesale grocery firm of S. Guckelheimer & Son, returned from Beaufort to-night on a special tug, having left there yesterday morning. Mr. Frieling said that at least 800 persons were drowned on the islands in that vicinity, and that when all reports are in upward of 1,500 will be found to have perished. Up to yesterday the Coroner had held inquests on 300 bodies, thirty-seven of which were buried in one pit and fifty in another. It is impossible to procure coffins.

CONVICT LABOR.

The Proposed Chair Factory Will Be Established In the Penitentiary.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 4.—The Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners met at 12 o'clock to-day and is now in session. Before them is the report of Treasurer Hale, the committee of one to whom was referred the proposition of the Illinois and the local firm for the output of the proposed chair factory. The establishment of the proposed chair factory in the penitentiary of such capacity as to employ 600 convicts and produce an output of $20,000 per month, and advises the acceptance of the proposal of Messrs. Norman and Hubbard, of Frankfort, which has been modified so as to guarantee with satisfactory bond the placing of $18,000 per month of the product and more as the trade may demand. It is estimated that 50 per cent of the output will be convict labor, or fifty cents per head per day for 600 convicts.

The board adopted the report and the State will at once proceed to business with a guarantee that all the claims it makes for the next twelve months will find a ready sale.

HELD UP.

A Train Held up in Kansas by Three Nervy Men.

St. Louis, Sept. 3.—At about 4 o'clock this morning the east-bound passenger train on the St. Louis and San Francisco road, in charge of Conductor Mills, was held up by highwaymen at Mound Valley, a flag station a short distance west of Oswego, Kan. An express messenger was killed and the passengers were robbed. The train had stopped to take on passengers. As the train was ready to move, two men sprang from the platform to the tender and ordered the engineer to pull out until told to stop. The engineer and firemen were covered with rifles, and obeyed orders.

It was at this point that Messenger C. A. Chapman was killed. One of the highwaymen looked around the side of the car, and saw the messenger standing in the door of his car. The robber fired, and the messenger fell out of the car. When the train had gone about two miles, the engineer was ordered to stop, and the engine crew were locked in the baggage car with the baggage.

The robbers then went through the passenger coaches and made the passengers hold up hands while they were robbed.

SIX NECKS IN THE NOOSE.

The Law Has Its Taming With Murderers in South Carolina.

Spartanburg, S. C., Sept. 1.—George Turner was hanged here at 12:57 p. m., to-day. Turner was a handsome man, fifty years old weighing over 200 pounds. He was the owner of a cotton factory and was worth $50,000. Several years ago he killed two men at different times, but got clear through false witnesses. He drugged his sister-in-law and seduced her, after which, in a quarrel with her brother, Ed Finger, he killed him with a pistol while a negro was holding him. For three years he spent his wealth trying to evade the death penalty.

Laurens, S. C., Sept. 1.—Wade Cannon and George Bowlers, colored, were hanged here to-day for arson. At the same time John Ferguson was executed for wife-murder. There were no sensational incidents.

Berkey, S. C., Sept. 1.—Oscar Johnson, an all-around murderer, was hanged here to-day for killing Henry Wetman, white, and his wife. Henry Wetman was also hanged for killing a man in a quarrel about the latter's wife. Johnson was strangled and his contortions were terrible.

Spared No One.

Lancaster, Ky., Sept. 2.—After a session of two weeks the grand jury of the Garrard Circuit Court has adjourned. The way it handled the transgressor was a caution. The foreman and several jurors were members of the Law and Order Temperance League, and the "Blind Tiger" element of the hurg was given "knock out" without gloves.

It found 125 indictments in all, 53 of which were for selling liquor unlawfully, 6 for carrying concealed weapons, 3 for gaming, 2 for assault, 2 for selling cigarettes to minors under the new Kentucky law, 2 for malicious shooting and wounding, 2 for furnishing liquor to minors, and 2 for grand larceny. City Attorney J. Mort Rothwell was indicted for an assault made upon Public Administrator Hubbs during the recent local option contest.

The Origin of Cholera.

India is undoubtedly the home of cholera. So far as history goes it also appears that cholera was originated in that country by the mela, or pilgrimages, which used to be made annually to the shrines of certain gods in what is now known as the Province of Orissa, in the Bengal Presidency. Hundreds of thousands of pilgrims used to flock to the temple of Juggernaut from all parts of Hindostan, says the St. Louis Republic. Within a stone's throw of the temple there was an enormous tank or talao, which covered two acres of ground and was reached by deep flights of steps called "ghats." These steps were surrounded by temples subsidiary to those of the main-girding Juggernaut, and thither the votaries of Lakshmi, the goddess of wealth, or of Gumputti, the elephant-headed god, or Siva, the grand destroyer, vended their way. They bathed in the tank, drank its water (which was normally covered by a thick green scum of vegetation), and lived on its edges, with results that can be imagined. Then a new disease appeared, which speedily churned beneath the wheels of Juggernaut's car. Whither, by the aid of the India, then over Europe by way of the Persian Gulf and the Volga, and lastly into America, at each stride claiming hundreds of thousands of victims. That tank in Orissa has been cleaned out by the officers of the Government of India, and pilgrims are absolutely enjoined from assembling near it. The result is that cholera has disappeared from the once accursed vicinity. At other places of sacred pilgrimage, which were wont to be the congregation points of mela, such sanitary precautions have been taken as have banished outbreaks of cholera. If cleanliness is next to godliness, then godliness is nigh akin to health which, of course, is the antipodes to diseases of the form of cholera. The sanitary arrangements perfected by the Government of India around the tanks of Orissa, and all such similar sacred tanks, achieved more for the welfare of the people than all the bell-ringing at the heads of the gods in Hindostan. The multitude might pray, when disease afflicted, might, to Holt mayonn, the monkey god, but their prayers for succor were vain until the new and, hitherto unknown, devotee cleanliness, stepped in and took command of the situation.

Profit in Poultry.

Says James Rankin in the Home-stead: I have sixteen cows in my barn; my neighbors call them good ones. The milk is sold in a neighboring village at remunerative prices. It requires the labor of two men and one team to milk, care for these cows and deliver milk. I have 350 pullets in my yard; with but a tithe of the labor and capital employed, these pullets last winter made me more than double the clear money that my cows did. I am well acquainted with the young men who are running a poultry and dairy farm conjointly. The one is an invalid, keeps 1000 hens, the care of which occupies about one half of his time. The other keeps thirty cows from which he makes butter of so good a quality that it really commands eight or ten cents above the standard price. This man raises the usual farm crops, sends the papers carefully, knows something of labor and its application, and runs his egg of four or five men with an eye to his business, yet the invalid brothers clears double the money from his 1000 hens that his brother does from the whole farm.

One instance more: E. Damon, of South Hanson, Mass., told me not long since that he had 750 pullets in his yard, 600 of which had been confined in one building all winter with out stepping out of doors. These fowls had furnished him with thirty-five dozen eggs per day during the winter. These eggs were taken at the door at fifty two cents per dozen. This gave him $11 clear profit per day, with only a few hens' care.

The Wheat Crop.

The following is the opinion of Mr. C. A. Pillsbury, the head of the great flour milling concern in the world, as to the wheat outlook:

My opinion is that, if the farmers are not forced to sell the great bulk of their wheat crop during the first movement of the crop, they will get good prices for the present crop. It looks to me that, taking the best accounts we can get from the winter wheat crop and the probable view of the spring wheat crop, the United States will not produce on the Atlantic seaboard a bushel of wheat more than will be needed for our own consumption, and that the only amount we will have to spare for export is the surplus left over from the last two crops. Our visible supply is about 40,000,000 above the minimum which it ever reached.

Jerseys vs Shorthorns.

THE DIFFERENCE.

From May 16 to May 30 inclusive, a period of fifteen days, at the World's Fair contest, twenty-five select Jersey cows consumed food to the value of $98.14. At the same time and place twenty-five select Shorthorn cows consumed food to the value of $99.35. In the case of both breeds the cows were selected by their representative friends, and fed and cared for by representatives chosen by them. Food was furnished ad libitum and charged at the same stated price to each lot of cows.

The real question up for discussion was which breed (Guernseys were also in the debate) could utilize their food to most profit. It was called a dairy contest and cheese was the special product manufactured, but it was found necessary, in order to supplant the advocated breeders of general-purpose cattle, to make the illogical concession and compare the loss or gain in live weight should be accounted for at the rate of 12 cents per pound. The by-product of which was also only credited to each breed at eight cents per hundred pounds. The cheese was credited according to quality at price which averaged 13.4 cents for the Jerseys and 13 cents for the Shorthorns.

The result of the fifteen days' test resulted in giving credit as follows:

327.00 lbs live weight gain.
Total, 1778.76 lbs.
SHORTHORNS.
1077.60 lbs cured cheese.
709.00 lbs live weight gain.
Total, 1786.60 lbs.

On practically the same value of food, the Jerseys make 374 pounds more cheese and 332 pounds less gain in live weight. This is, as near as may be, an average of one pound per cow per day. That is to say, while the general purpose cow was gaining one pound in live weight per day, valued at 4 1/2 cents, her special-purpose sister was sending to market one pound of cheese, valued at 13.4 cents—a daily difference of 8.9 cents in favor of the special-purpose cow, admitting that the gain in live weight could be converted into cash. But, in fact, this gain in live weight is a good deal like some of the assets in the suspended banks, hard to realize on.—Hoard's Dairyman.

Cattle Trade, Present and Future.

For some weeks the cattle trade of this country, as well as that of the west, has not been excessive. To a large extent this is due to the state of affairs in Europe. Especially in France and England the summer's drought, which terminated only a short time ago, has scorched the pasture lands, and ruined the hay crop until there is nothing left to feed the animal. Imported hay is selling at so high a figure that farmers cannot afford to purchase it for their cattle, and the result is that thousands of lean stock are being marketed to save them from starvation. This has so glutted the markets for the present that prices there are also away down.

We hear of cattle in France being sold at one-fourth the price that is usually paid. Some farmers are curing their grain crops for fodder to supply the present emergency, knowing that a reaction must take place before many months. Some of the neighboring countries that have not suffered from the drought are purchasing and shipping to their farms great numbers which will be returned fat with a new profit when the demand revives. Knowing these facts we need not be alarmed about our present low prices. Although our exported cattle have been much better than the native stock that has been rushed on the market, we have to compete with them more or less, as an oversupply of poor meat naturally lessens the demand for the better quality.

Our hope is in the future demand which must come as soon as the present surplus is exhausted. The people must have meat, and foreign countries must be depended on to supply it, therefore our farmers should see to it that they are in a position to supply the demand when it comes, as it certainly will. British markets want the best quality that can be supplied, and that will pay good prices for the article that fills the bill.

Proctor Knott Declines.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—Ex Governor Proctor Knott, of Kentucky was to-day offered the Hawaiian mission and declined it.

Dr Graves Suicides.

Denver, Col., Sept. 3.—Dr. T. Thatcher Graves, the convicted poisoner of Mrs. Josephine Barnaby, committed suicide in his cell at the county jail last night, presumably by taking poison.

HAWLEY'S

Little Cyclone Clothes Washer!

A perfect wonder and a joy to every household, making wash day one of pleasure instead of dread and drudgery which thousands of mothers will testify to all along the line.

Positively the Best and Cheapest Washer ever offered to the Public for the following Reasons:

FIRST.—It is the most durable. SECOND.—It requires less labor. THIRD.—It will do a greater variety of work. FOURTH.—It will do the same amount of work in less time than any other without wearing the clothes, or fulling or shrinking the flannel. It is less cumbersome, weighing only two pounds.

The principal feature of this Washer is in forcing the hot water and suds through the clothes by compressed air. DIRECTIONS FOR USING THE WASHER: Have the water nearly boiling, and plenty of it, so that your clothes will be loose in the tub, that the water may be submerged through them; work the Washer from three to five minutes for each tub. Do not pound or beat, but press, wring them out and soap them again; return the clothes to the tub and pour on plenty of boiling water and use the Washer as before. You do away with boiling the clothes, as the second washing is the boiling process. Use the machine for rinsing.

With this wonderful little Washer you can wash from the finest lace to the heaviest bed quilt, blanket or carpet and can wash fifty pieces in the same time that it requires to wash one, provided the vessel is large enough. This Washer can be used in a common bucket, tub or barrel. One woman can take this Washer and do the same amount of washing in one hour that it would take three women half a day to do. When through using the Washer, it can be hung up against the wall or stood up in the corner of the room, and can always be found in perfect working order.

Following the above directions and you will be surprised and delighted to see how clean your clothes are, how quick you have got through with your washing without breaking your back or spending half a day over a washboard, and rubbing your knuckles to pieces. For infantile washing it is a long sought desideratum, as there is no handling required.

When once you give this Washer a trial you will have no other, for it not only saves labor, but it will save its cost in the wear of clothes in the first month's using. All will admit that clothes are worn out more on the washboard than by personal wear. For further investigation into the merits of this little wonder, we ask for an opportunity to do your washing free of charge, and convince you beyond a doubt.

THE PRICE OF THIS WASHER IS ONLY $3.00.

Thus Placing it Within the Reach of Every Family.

Our agent will call on you and exhibit at your homes a sample Machine as soon as possible. A critical examination is all that is necessary to convince the most skeptical of its merits. Leave your orders at the Hardware Store of Pierce & Son and they will receive prompt attention.

The Crittenden Press

ISSUED WEEKLY.

R. C. WALKER, Publisher.

F. M. Clement is the Democratic nominee for the Legislature. He will appreciate your vote and influence.

We are authorized to announce ISAAC LINLEY a candidate for the Legislature, to represent Crittenden and Livingston counties in the next General Assembly of Kentucky. Election November 1893.

FOR THE SENATE.

We are authorized to announce S. O. NUNN a candidate for the State Senate in the district composed of the counties of Crittenden, Caldwell and Webster, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce MISS MINA WHEELER a candidate for Superintendent of the Public Schools of Crittenden County. She will appreciate your vote and influence.

The news from Washington is to the effect that the Chicago platform will be carried out. So note it.

The Kentucky convicts are to be put to work. Every body is glad that they are to have a job, while there is no anxiety about the wages they receive.

It was hoped that the next term of the Crittenden Circuit Court would be without any new reduction units, but the hope is shattered, true to the record another got in last week.

Adjutant General Gross, has been nominated for the State Senate for the counties Breckinridge, Meade and Hancock. This means one vote each for Brown for the United States Senate.

A Courier Journal correspondent knows that the reports touching the impaired condition of Mr. Cleveland's health are untrue, and that the President is in good health. If anybody has reasons to know that Mr. C's health has been good for some time, is our great Louisville paper.

Elsewhere in this paper will be seen the resignation of Dr. W. N. Scott as chairman of the "Peoples Party" in McLean county. It is extremely gratifying to see the boys coming back home. They will surely all be in by November.—Callahan Ledger.

The idea that men of influence or means can trample with impunity upon the moral laws or the statutory laws, or even the established customs of society does not always hold good. If the opinions of the newspapers or rather the caustic criticisms of Kentucky newspapers, touching the conduct of the eloquent Kentucky Congressman, W. C. P. Breckinridge, is a safe indication, it may be said that, at best, the usefulness of that "silver tongue" is seriously impaired, and wealth and all the elegance it can command will never be able to restore its possessor, no matter what his genius may be, to the place he once occupied in the hearts of the people. There are some things that the rich and poor, the great and small must respect alike, and the chief among those things is the virtue of women. The present status of the affair between Col. Breckinridge and Miss Pollard does not lead the newspaper reader of to-day to believe that the gifted statesman has done this, and, if where the test is made in the courts, this proves true, the public should bid farewell to Mr. B.

Hurrah For Allen.

The Louisville Times has the following: Those who are guessing as to the successor of Gen. Gross as Adjutant General when he resigns to be voted for by Senator, say that the probable new Adjutant has not yet been named, and will be Capt. C. T. Allen, of Caldwell county. Capt. Allen was the delegate to the Constitutional Convention who edited the proof of the new instrument; is an ex-Confederate soldier of note and received an early and thorough military education, which is but one of his admirable qualifications for the place. Other claim that Assistant Adjutant General Richardson is sure to succeed his chief, and that if he does not, he himself will resign, and there will be both an Adjutant General and an Assistant Adjutant to appoint.

Mine Horror.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 5.—At Shelby, on the Evansville and Terre Haute road, this morning, a force of men went into a coal mine to resume work, after week of idleness. There was a gas explosion, and the mine was wrecked. Eleven men have been taken out badly injured and mutilated. Four will die and probably more. The details are not obtainable at this hour.

THE DELANEY CASE.

Geo. Delaney's Motion for a New Trial.

Morganfield, Ky., Sept. 2.—The case of Geo. Delaney was called today to entertain a motion for a new trial. The attorneys for the defense had heretofore filed a list of exceptions and today filed several affidavits from parties in Crittenden county showing that several of the jury that tried the case had formerly expressed their opinions, and that opinion was that the entire party ought to be hung and also that if the jury did not find a verdict with heavy penalty the people of this Union county, would certainly maul them. Whether there affidavits or any of them will be sustained or not no one knows, but I understand that the commonwealth will not fail to discharge every duty in getting at the bottom facts on their side of the case. This case will not be heard by Judge Givens for about two weeks that will give ample time for both parties to bring out their entire force, and who will win I am not prepared to say. Who will have the advantage in the law-hearing on the case when it comes up for argument on can tell. It was confidently expected by Henry Delaney's friends that he would get bail today, but his case was continued until the regular November term. At whose instance it was continued I do not know. There many that believe or so express themselves as believing, that if he were bailed violence would overtake him. This I think all talk, for I do not believe he would be in any danger whatever, as our courts and laws are always powerful enough when administered by fearless, honest and conscientious officials. The laxity of the courts and the slow and tedious process of the law as a general rule are the cause of more violence than any other cause, and whenever the citizens are satisfied the law will be enforced there is no danger of mobs, and all good people everywhere ought to be interested in the enforcement of the laws without prejudice.—Cor. Henderson Journal.

Inquiry around town indicates that some pretty strong affidavits, and a good many of them too, have been sent from this place to Morganfield to show that a number of the jurors who were on the panel that rendered a verdict against George Delaney, had previously expressed an opinion, and decided opinions in the case. As can best be gathered as many as six affidavits have already been sent and others will be forwarded in due time. The documents already sent, according to semi-official reports, touch upon as many as three of the late jurors, and in unmistakable terms, says that opinions had been expressed to the effect that all of the defendants in the celebrated case should be hung. The charge against each juror is backed up by the affidavit of as many as two citizens. If these reports are really true—let us hope that they are not—the affair in a pretty mess.

Awards For Kentuckians.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—At the live stock show at the World's Fair today, Kentucky breeders of Morgan horses carried off substantial honors. Hornsby Brothers, of Eminence, Ky., were awarded premiums as follows: Morgan horse, section one, stallion five years old or over, first premium. Section three, stallion three years old and under four, first and second premiums. Section four, stallion two years old and under three, first premium. Section nine, mare four years old and under five, first premium. The paid admissions to the Fair today were 127,095.

Down to Death.

Cincinnati, Sept. 3.—What will prove perhaps the most disastrous street-car accident ever recorded took place in this city this evening at 7 o'clock. An electric car dashed down Walnut Hill at a frightful speed, left the track, broke a telephone pole and shot into a saloon, wrecking both itself and the structure it struck. As a result of the collision two people are dead, six are injured beyond recovery and nearly forty more are hurt, many of them dangerously.

THERE FOR THE WINTER.

The Fight on the Silver Bill Will Be Long and Bitter.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The cooler weather and Senator Cockrell's aggressive tactics yesterday make it clear that there is to be a long fight in the Senate over the Silver Bill, and Congressmen are beginning to settle down for the winter. Up to-day most of the new Congressmen and many of the older Representatives had given their temporary addresses at one or the other of the hotels. Now they are looking about for houses and private apartments and are bringing on their families for the season. All of which is significant that no adjournment of the extra session and possibly only a brief recess can be looked for.

Crittenden County in the Mexican and Civil Wars.

IN WAR WITH MEXICO.

Upon the passage of the act admitting Texas into the sisterhood of states, Mexico immediately broke off all diplomatic intercourse with the American government, called home her minister and began preparations for war. War soon followed. Gen Taylor was sent with a small force to hold the disputed territory. Some skirmishing ensued. A call for volunteers soon followed, the news of the battle of Palo Alto, the first regular battle of the war, Kentucky's quota under the first requisition for troops was 2400 men, of this number Crittenden county furnished one whole company which was commanded by Capt. Cook, of Princeton, Ky. William Polk, who lives at Anora, is the only survivor of this company. Crittenden and Livingston counties jointly furnished another company, but it was mustered in to the service as Mississippi troops. This company started at the first impulse of the war and took an active part in the battle of Resaca de la Palma. Buena Vista and Corro Gordo. James Jones, of Dycusburg, is the only known survivor of this company. He is totally blind the result of a gun burst on the field of Buena Vista.

THE CIVIL WAR.

"The cause," which led to the great civil war has been so elaborately discussed by its friends and opponents as to embalm it in the minds of the whole people.

Although Kentucky used the most strenuous efforts to remain neutral, during the first year of the war, her soil was invaded by recruiting officers from both armies until the neutrality was broken and her citizens precipitated into the conflict. Crittenden county was strongly Union, and when the Federal drum rolled out the sad tidings of the disastrous defeat of Bull Run, and called for volunteers for the preservation of the Union, Crittenden came gallantly forward offering her most cherished sons. As nearly as can be ascertained from the adjutant general's report, Crittenden furnished about 600 men to the Union army, enlisted with companies in adjoining counties so that the exact number can not be obtained.

Below we give a list of companies wholly or principally raised in the county. The first named officers were the ones in command at the organization of the companies, the others succeeded to command in order of their names.

Several companies of this regiment were partially raised in Crittenden county. Crittenden county furnished but one full company to the Confederate States army. This company belonged to the Third Ky., regiment and was raised principally in the northern part of the county, and was mustered into the service under command of Capt. T. T. Barnett. Many others joined the Confederate service near the close of the war. But they reached the army at different points in the South where they enlisted; the adjutant's reports not being preserved we can not give the whole number enlisted or the names of commanders. There were not any battles fought on the soil of Crittenden county, but the county was over run by the troops of both armies, who often plundered the citizens of any thing necessary for their comfort. Horses were carried off, and the citizens often required to pay over certain named sums of money for the horses so taken. Peaceable citizens were carried off but fortunately all returned alive.

The confederate General Lyon entered Marion in January 1865, after occupying the town for a while, they applied the torch to the court house, and burned it to the ground; the records were not destroyed. A new one was built after the war, but it was destroyed by fire in May 1870. The present court house was completed in October 1871, making the third on the same site within seven years.

Mr. Jas Lewis a Union soldier, at home on a furlough was shot and killed in the town of Marion, by an unknown soldier. This occurred in front of the Marion Hotel during the year 1867. He escaped after being severely wounded by some citizens, who tried to arrest him. A Mr. Cannon an out spoken Union man, was killed at his home near Shady Grove, in 1863 by confederate soldiers under command of Capt. Pierce Bates.

A Death Feast.

Logansport, Ind., Sept. 5.—Wilson Sages and wife, of Clinton township, this county, attended the labor day celebration in this city, leaving at home their four children, the oldest fourteen years of age and the youngest five. When they returned home last evening they found them all stretched out on the floor dead, and evidence showing that they had gotten hold of and eaten rough on rats.

New York, Sept. 1.—A Times special from Augusta, Ga., says that the negroes driven to Port Royal by the storm from the surrounding islands and the rich cotton plantations are so destitute and so badly in need of something to eat that they have resorted to fighting among themselves for food. Several were killed in a fight for provisions. Those who are not given immediate relief become rebellious, and it is a difficult task to keep the negroes in subjection. As soon as one negro gets some supplies he is attacked for his share, and considerable food has been wasted by these battles.

ASIATIC CHOLERA.

A Genuine Case in Jersey City. Washington, Sept. 2.—The Marine Hospital Bureau has little information in addition to that already published touching to the fatal case of cholera in Jersey City. There seems to be no doubt that Martin Crowe died from genuine Asiatic Cholera, for Surgeon General Wyman (now in Jersey City) has telegraphed Surgeon Austin here that the case was such, in addition, State Inspector Hunt telegraphed that examination showed the presence of the cholera spirillum, and in this he is confirmed by Surgeon Linnyoun. The suspicious case of Black has not yet been diagnosed. Every effort is being made to trace the origin of the disease with a view to the adoption of measures to prevent the occurrence of any further cases.

GREAT FIRES IN THE SUN.

Tremendous Solar Disturbances That Affect Our Weather.

Tremendous fires on the sun's surface the past few days, says the Philadelphia Record, exceeding in size and intensity anything measurable by human understanding, have drawn like a magnet the attention of all astronomers. To the "sun spots," the name commonly given to the visible effects of the volcanic action of the sun, is attributed by scientific men the magnificent auroral display of last evening, the wind storm, the clarifying of the atmosphere, and the almost abrupt falling of the temperature from the intense heat of yesterday to the chill of last night and this morning.

This description of the wonderful solar disturbances is given to the "World" by Astronomer Garrett P. Service.

"A stupendous group of black spots easily visible to the naked eye when the latter is protected by a dark glass, was on the meridian of the sun. No less than twelve smaller groups of spots were visible on the disk at the same time, so that the appearance of the sun's face was most extraordinary when viewed with a telescope.

"The large group is in the southern hemisphere, and is probably a reappearance of a huge spot seen at previous times. It showed two main centers of activity, and the area of the solar surface covered by it was not less than 3,000,000,000 square miles. The western nucleus of the group presented a vast circular pool, the center of which was as black as ink.

"The diameter of the black center was not less than 14,000 miles, but its outlines were broken by fiery bridges projecting into and across it. One of these, whose length could not have been less than 10,000 miles, was seemingly split in two from end to end, while another vast curving line of flame ran in and across the pit to join it. The eastern nucleus was still larger, and showed a marvellous mass of black chains crossed and divided in every direction by blazing conques and bridges.

"Around the edge of the great group eruptions of metallic vapor were evidently taking place, lifting masses of blazing matter to the height of many thousand miles. Changes in the details of some of the spots indicated that the most tremendous forces were at work. A group of spots at once so large and so complex as this very seldom has been seen upon the sun. It is not improbable that it is situated at or near the same point on the sun where the huge spot of February, 1892, appeared, which was accompanied by a widespread magnetic storm and a gorgeous red aurora.

"According to our theory of the relation of sun-spots to terrestrial magnetism, this group should have produced its greatest effect upon the earth several days ago, when it was just coming around the eastern edge of the disk; but, according to another theory its maximum effect is due now, when it is near the solar meridian. If auroras are not seen to-night in places where the sky is clear it will be well to look for them during the coming few days, because, although the great group is now past the center, yet other groups which may develop much activity are just coming around the eastern edge of the sun.

The largest spot on the sun's surface is visible to the naked eye when guarded by smoked glass.

The Drunkard's Home.

For the Passes. With peace and plenty, home was blessed in days of long ago. The olive branch above their nest waved gently to and fro.

How whistled the happy hours away! I see their visions yet. As o'er their head, day by day, The sun arose and set.

The children rolled upon the floor, Was heard no sorrow's moan; The motto o'er the parlor door, "God Bless Our Happy Home."

Bright pictures hung upon the walls, Flush carpets on the floor; With aid for every worthy call, And riches well in store.

Just hear the voice of one who sings, From out the twilight gloom, "Hear! now the house wife's voice rings, 'She is singing, 'Home Sweet Home.'"

Like silvery waves of summer's sea, Her voice arose and fell— Sweet cadences of melody.

As make the bosom swell, A smile upon her dimpled face, No lines of sorrow e'er could trace, No trouble dwelling there.

Thus heaven smiled upon the place, To heaven's choir tuned high: The house was hushed with soft lullaby, She sang her lullaby.

Thus time moved on in its own pace, As seasons came and went; Till once again in life's stormy race My steps that way I bent.

Yes, near the closing of a day Of cares and toils and dangers I passed along that old-time way, The house was hushed with strangers.

Before the house within the wood, The same clear brook was purring; While near the elms a cabin stood, From which the smoke was curling.

The ragged roof was full of signs, And bumps all mossy grown; The broken windows, stuffed with rags, No decent tramp would own.

In faded dress the worse for wear, Within that cabin lone, A woman sang of days of despair, Instead of "Home Sweet Home."

She could not sing of "Home Sweet Home," "On God! how wretched is this place!" She said as night began: While down her wrinkled, care worn face The drops of sorrow ran.

Yes, drops from sorrow's burning deep, As children cried themselves to sleep With begging hand for bread, With faded shawl pulled round her form, She watched the embers die; No cozy couch to keep her warm, No loving husband's sigh.

He does not come, although 'tis late, And cold and dark and chill; But she lonely sits and waits, Oh, faithful woman still!

Woe her sit, and hear her sigh For joys of other years; Her bright eyes, for the days gone by, Are running down with tears.

At last when night is nearly past, And day has come again, The drunkard husband comes at last, His limbs stagger in.

But not to kiss his weeping wife, But rather curse her wretched life, With added taunts and jeers. When a person lies in agony the bells of the parish he belongs to are tolled with the clappers until he either dies or recovers again.

As soon as this sign is given everybody in the street, as well as in the houses, falls on his knees, offering prayer for the sick person.—Old Journal.

"It didn't pay. Lady—Why did you pick up that coin I dropped, and try to run off with it?"

Gamin—"Cause ther las' time I picked up money an' handed it back they took it. 'stead of tellin' me to keep it fur me honesty—Good News.

"I'm goin' home," said Col. Kyrtar: "I'm goin' home, and if anybody wants me to serve my country, say, he'll have to send for me, sah." "Why, you expected to stay a good while longer?"

"I know it," replied the colonel, cheerily, "but circumstances alters cases. I don't mind telling you that it's a case of finance with me." "That you counted over a lot of money in my presence only last night?" "That's a fact, I met a friend in distress, and I lent him a hand, and he said, 'I'll pay you back on a friend in distress.' Why, sah, the man was in actual need, and I divided with him."

"I did he ask you for the money?" Inquired the colonel, suspiciously. "No, sah, I didn't want to be asked." "Then how did you know he needed it?" "I saw howed his coat, and when I lost it—here the good Kentucky gentleman's voice quivered—"I saw, sah, that it was covered," "ticked covered, sah—'with rust.'"—Washington Star.

"You got out of this kitchen or I'll call my husband," screamed the hard-faced woman. "You ain't got no husband," retorted Hungry Higgins. "If such a lookin' woman as you had a husband he'd be in here doing the cookin'!"—Indianapolis Journal.

KODAKS

Look to the lens in buying a camera. With a poor lens good pictures are impossible. Kodaks have the best lenses, hence they make the best pictures.

Kodaks are compact, have accurate shutters, are carefully made and are always tested before being sent out. Kodaks are reliable.

The Columbus Model Folding Kodaks combine the desirable features of a complete view camera with the compactness of a Kodak. They are fitted with the iris diaphragm shutter with pneumatic release, have a double swing back and sliding front. Can be used with long focus or wide angle lenses and are easily adapted to stereoscopic work.

KODAK FILM. Our film does not tear; does not fluff; is evenly coated and has no bubbles.

SHE WILL SHOOT.

Dacia Goen Sends Two Loads of Shot After Barglars.

"Bang! Bang!!" Those were the sounds that rang out about three o'clock Sunday morning, waking everybody on Belleville street, and setting them to wondering who could be disturbing the quiet of a Sunday morning by firing a shot gun.

Investigation proved that the shots were fired by Miss Dacia Goen, a member of Dr. J. H. Clark's family, and they were fired straight at a couple of men, who were trying to pick a lock and gain entrance to the house. When the plucky woman discovered them, instead of screaming, she got the gun, and quietly secreted herself on an upper veranda, behind some lattice-work, and waited developments.

They first endeavored to effect an entrance to the dwelling and while working at the door, they were while the watcher could not see them; they left the door, and began work on the lock of an adjoining building in full view of the nifty woman; she concluded that her opportunity had come, and leveled her gun and fired twice at the thieves. She thinks a load of shot was put in the arm and side of one of the men, as he dropped the arm, uttered a suppressing groan and was quickly spirited away by his companion. Every effort was made to trace the men, and what was thought to be a warm trail, sprinkled here and there with drops of blood, was followed to the woods near town, there all trace was lost.

For weeks Marion has suffered at the hands of night prowlers; private houses as well as business houses had been entered and pilfered, and every effort so far has failed to lead to a capture, and it is sincerely hoped that the shot went true to their aim and will put a stop to the thieving.

Dacia Goen deserves a vote of thanks for her plucky conduct in winking the scoundrels, and if the brave men don't hurry up and capture the burglars, they should turn their fire arms over to the timid women.

While in the sheriff's office a day or two since, our most efficient sheriff called attention to the law which provides for the publication of delinquent tax-payers. The sheriff is required to settle January 1st, and that settlement together with a list of those returned delinquent, must be published in some county paper. Hereofore this county has had from 400 to 600 delinquents, but as the poll tax has been by law reduced, and the publication of the delinquent required, that number will hereafter be materially and beautifully less.

Where taxes are levied in any school district, the trustees are required to appoint a treasurer, and notify the tax-payers to call on him within a certain time and pay the tax. If at the expiration of that time, there are those who have not paid, five per cent is added and the delinquent list is turned over to the sheriff and he has ninety days to levy and collect.

Messrs J. N. and R. W. Thomas have purchased the McMeican grocery and bakery, and will continue the business at the old stand. These are deserving young gentlemen, and they will handle the best of goods. We speak for them a liberal share of the public's patronage. Their place of business is under the City Hall, in the house recently occupied by the Geo. M. Crider hardware store. Give them a call.

While at camp-meeting at Harrison, Mr. Horace Sage and Miss Ida Stevenson, daughter of J. C. Stevenson, concluded to unite their fortunes and one evening after night fall, they silently disappeared and when they returned from Elizabethtown, Ill., it was Mr. Sage and wife. The Press extends congratulations.

County Judge Moore went down the Ford's Ferry road yesterday to investigate some rough places in the road near Butler's creek. The citizens want some changes in the road at that place. If there is a worse road in the county, its whereabouts is not known.

Mr. Jas. L. Rankin, of Ford's Ferry, and Mr. Geo. Hall, of Missouri came up from Ford's Ferry yesterday and spent the day in the cool shades of Marion.

Killed at Princeton.

Princeton, Ky., Sept. 6.—Last night about half past 11 o'clock Fate Boldt and Will George quarreled over some money. They were in Jerry Dukes saloon at the time; Boldt drew a pistol and fired at George, missed his mark, and the bullet struck Page Stokes, killing him instantly. All the parties, including the proprietor of the saloon, are negroes.

County Court Orders.

M. Schwab allowed $3.50 for supplies furnished pupils.

R. C. Walker allowed $30.56 for publishing financial statement.

Granville Stinson appointed road surveyor in precinct No. 5.

Crittenden Springs.

A Guest Writes Pleasantly of the Famous Watering Place.

As I sit in the handsome parlors of this famous health and pleasure resort this delightful cool morning, and allow my eyes to wander forth upon the beautiful panorama of natural scenery composed of hill and dale, forest and field, rock and meadow, that greets me from my eyrie upon the crest of the hotel hill and my ears drink in the delightful music of the Italian band, my mind reverts to the happy days I have spent amid all the splendor of natural scenery, human joy and refinement, and it is with a pang of keen regret that I am reminded that in one more revolution of the sun in its orbit I will have left it all behind me possibly forever. Not only has Crittenden Springs been nicely endowed by nature, but for above and beyond all natural beauty is the exceed great kindness, courtness, hospitalities and unselfishness that has marked the conduct of the present management. But for the untiring zeal and refined courtesies of Mr. and Mrs. Smith my brief sojourn here would have been stripped of no small part of its joy and happiness. To them and a few other bright and cheery souls due all the honor and praise for the delights that have greeted my latter day sojourners here.

Throughout the length and breadth of this fair land of ours there can no where be found a colony or family that has dwelt more in union, peace and harmony than have the congenial spirits of Crittenden Springs for the past two weeks. Our host and hostess ably assisted by Mrs. Dulaney, Mrs. Judge Burnett and Mrs. Wm. Marble and others have provided one continual round of novel and pleasurable entertainments for the benefit of the guests of the hotel. The writer has been informed that there have been some complaints made of the ordinary department by a few disgruntled people. Now we all know that it is utterly impossible for the management of any summer resort, where a vast concourse of people gather together for the season to have cooking up to the most approved standard, but I venture to say that the guests of Crittenden Springs have as little to complain of in this respect as the guests of any other pleasure resort under the shining sun. Our host was called to take the management of the hotel upon very brief notice, having only one month time in which to clean house, provide servants, and procure cooks, and the writer believes that no other two people could have accomplished so much and done it as well as our own Jim. Smith and his plucky little wife. If there is any fault to be found with the fare here whatever, a charitable person would attribute it not to any mismanagement on the part of the host and hostess, but to the unfavorable circumstances under which they took charge. They were so pressed for time that it was next to impossible to do everything perfectly. But aside and apart from the culinary department, never has a summer resort been blessed with more enjoyable entertainments than has Crittenden Springs. What with mother Hubbard balls, phantasia balls, private theatricals, progressive cinque parties, vocal and instrumental music and other entertainments galore the two weeks of the writers sojourn here has been one continual round of pleasure. No bickerings, no disorders, no heart-burings have intruded into this mystic and congenial circle to mar the pleasure of a single guest, but refinement, courtness and hospitality have been the shibboleth of all.

When I have gone far away from these delightful old hills to mix again with the business world with all its jarring, jagged edges, memory will return again to revel and feast upon the joys of my experiences here. It is the consensus of opinion of all the guests here now that Mr. and Mrs. Smith are the par excellence of management, and if the remain in charge another season we will all come back again. Here's to our host and hostess and all our fellow guests, and may we all live and prosper to meet again under as favorable auspices among the rugged but pleasant hills of old Crittenden.—B

Settled With Blood.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Sept. 1.—News has been received here in regard to the tragedy that took place just across in Todd county and resulted in the killing of Mack Lear by Thomas Bivin. In making a settlement the latter claimed that Lear owed him 50 cents, which Lear denied, when angry words passed. Bivin finally drew a knife, which plunged into his opponent's left breast, the blade penetrating to his heart. Lear fell and instantly expired. Bivin escaped, and is still at large.

HE IS DEAD.

The End of A Long and Somewhat Remarkable Career.

JAMES PRINGLE.

Friday Sept. 1, 1893 James Pringle died at the residence of J. A. Uley, at Salem, Ky., after a long and useful life. For some weeks he had been unable to leave his bed, and the approach of death was not unexpected. The end was quiet, and the going out of the life was like the setting of a summer sun; it had coursed its way from the eastern horizon, risen to the zenith, gently moved down the west, and slopes, and at last, having shed its light and life giving influence upon the world, it sank untroubled from sight.

The remains were placed to rest in the Salem cemetery Sunday.

Some weeks ago the Press published a sketch of his life from the pen of one who has long and intimately known him, and we reprint these lines:

"The most remarkable man living in Livingston county is James Pringle. He was born in Henry county, Ky., July 16th, 1797. He came to Livingston county in 1819 and here on the 10th day of July 1820, he married Miss Agnes Wilson, daughter of James Wilson, who played his part in the history of our country, for he fought in the Revolutionary war and was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Mr. Pringle and his good wife lived a peaceful and happy life together until Sept. 10, 1879, when she departed. They had no children. Mr. Pringle had three sisters and five brothers, all of whom are dead.

His father was a Scotchman and his mother was Irish. In his youth he learned the hatters trade, and he was a journeyman hatter when he found his way to this county. By industry, energy and hardest kind of work, he began to grow rich, and to day he is counted one of the richest men in this county, his property consisting of lands, town property, government bonds, notes, and cash in bank.

Mr. Pringle is one of the few men in this life who has always proved his word to be as good as his bond.

Many years ago Mr. Pringle bought his tombstone and wrote his motto and his epitaph, which is as follows:

Motto: Honor, Virtue, Justice and Truth.

What consolation in these words? What consolation it affords?

If we follow them in our lives, "They are a warning to the wise," O, that He who rules in Heaven above, Where all is pleasure, peace and love, Would incline our hearts to see The way that leads to felicity. There we could shout, then as we could sing:

"O Monster, Death, where is thy sting? Why should I fear the raging sea; When Jesus died for me? O, what a blessing it would be, If all our follies we could see, To guide us to the realms of love, Where all is pleasure peace and love."

Mr. Pringle has always lived up to his motto, and when the question comes to him from above: "Are you ready?" he can safely answer back "I am ready."

A Card.

Having sold my stock of goods, and retired from active business, I must wind up my affairs, therefore to all who owe me, I desire to say that you must settle with me. I am not situated that I can delay this matter, these things must be attended to at once. I write this in all earnestness, and trust that those to whom it is addressed will so understand and respond without other notice.
